BETHEL LIBRARY CURRENTLY HOSTING LOCAL ARTIST

Douglas Bane of Bethel is currently displaying more than 20 recent original oil paintings and prints at the Bethel Library.

These works represent about half of a sequential wildlife series he is completing this winter in preparation for a one man show this coming year. Mr. Bane has other works represented in Newburyport, New Hampton, Mass., and Greenwich, Conn., galleries.

Bane's graphic prints of the Canadian and desert lynxes are now on sale at the library. Half of the proceeds from the sales of these prints are to benefit the Bethel Library in order to further the renovation of an attic room.

This space is sorely needed to house the ever-growing volume of literature provided the public by the library.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY TO FEATURE 18th CENTURY LIFE FILM AT FEB. 3 MEETING

The monthly meeting of the Bethel Historical Society will be held on Thursday, Feb. 3, in the meeting room of the Moses Mason House at 7:30 p. m. The program will feature a film which provides an authentic and well-paced picture of the social and economic relationships of middle class people in colonial Virginia.

Made in the restored capital city of Williamsburg, it details a typical day in the life of one family, that of one of the town's prosperous craftsmen, the cabinetmaker who is shown teaching a journeyman the fine points of a design from Thomas Chippendale's compendium of the dominant roles of furniture in London.

The carefully developed narration, voiced by Conrad Nagel, emphasizes past and present at frequent intervals. Attention is called to the differences in means and speeds of transportation then and now, to the use of slave labor in many household tasks commonly performed today by mechanical power, to the absence of household conveniences now considered necessities.

The general structure of the craft system and the importance of various crafts in the community are clarified. Eighteenth century architecture, household furnishings, utensils, dress, and foods are all clearly pictured. The accompanying musical score is likewise characteristic of the period. The film also documents facets of tavern life, the treatment of offenders against the law and the handling of news by the post rider and weekly paper.

A cordial invitation to attend is extended to everyone. Refreshments will be served.

COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

The Board of Selectmen met Monday night, Jan. 24 and acted on a variety of items.

One bid was received on the 1974 Chevrolet Police car. The bid from Marjorie Berry in the amount of $700 was accepted. The Board set Thursday, Feb. 3, for visiting the West Bethel Children's Center. The purpose of the visit is for the board to see the Center in operation and discuss the Center's programs and activities with the Center staff.

In other business the board set the charge to the towns of Newry and Hanover for using Bethel's Dump/Landfill at $2,500 for 1977. This charge is based on the additional costs of operation this year due to changing from an open burning dump to a sanitary landfill operation. This change is required by the State Department of Environmental Protection.

The Board approved the appointment of Neta Littlefield as clerk-typist in the Town Office. This position is funded under the CETA program which lasts until September 1977. Mrs. Littlefield will work on special projects that are in addition to regular responsibilities of the town office staff. Primary emphasis will be on updating various town records.

The board then continued discussion of the 1977 budget and approved recommended budget figures for submission to the Budget Committee.

The Budget Committee met Wednesday night, Jan. 26, to begin consideration of the 1977 budget. The town manager presented the total budget and answered questions from the committee. The Committee acted on a number of items and requested to meet with the Safety Committee and Recreation Board Thursday evening, Jan. 27 to discuss portions recommended by these organizations.

The Board of Selectmen will hold a regular meeting Monday night, Jan. 31.

From Congress

BILL COHEN

The alarming increase of crime in America over the past ten years has become a major concern of all citizens and their law enforcement agencies. In particular, burglary, and its associated spiralling costs, present a serious problem for the nation as well as the State of Maine.

Burglary is the most serious of the property crimes, causing tremendous personal losses to its victims annually and often leading to murder, rape, robbery, or assault. In the United States, over 3 million burglaries are committed annually, and 60% of those crimes involve private residences.

In 1975, burglaries accounted for nearly one-third of all reported crime. Further, the incidence of burglary has increased more rapidly in rural and suburban areas in recent years. While non-residential burglaries decreased, residential burglaries in Maine rose during the first six months of 1976 by 8.7%. Even more alarming, the value of the property stolen during residential burglaries jumped 76%, to $1.8 million in early 1976. Only 7% of those stolen household goods were ever recovered.

Clearly, a need exists for stronger protective measures. The increased incidence of burglaries in Maine has prompted me to contact Clarence M. Kelley, the Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, to learn what means of Federal assistance are available to aid local and state law enforcement agencies to combat residential burglaries in the State.

In addition to the efforts of these agencies, private preventive measures can contribute to a decrease in crime. Burglary is one major crime that can be effectively resisted by each citizen taking positive action at home to reduce his own vulnerability.

The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration of the Department of Justice describes two basic defenses against burglary—delay and detection. If a burglar can be denied entrance to the residence for at least five minutes, it is likely that he will give up rather than risk detection. Installing and using sturdy door and window locks can delay the average burglar long enough to prevent entry.

Because two-thirds of all residential burglars enter through a door, solid core wood or metal exterior doors with good jimmy-proof locks are a good defense. Screen and storm doors that can be locked also offer some extra protection. To be most effective, locks should be mounted with three-inch tamperproof screws. Garage doors should also be kept closed and locked, with good key-operated garage door locks having a one-inch bolt throw into either the metal door track or the door frame. Doors leading from the garage or basement into the house should also have deadlocks to prevent entry.

In those illegal entries through windows, the rear and side windows are used most frequently, and they are usually jammed or forced. Therefore, storm windows and screens locked from inside can offer some protection. Double-hung sash windows are best secured with key-locking sash locks; casement windows that open on a hinged arrangement can be secured by removing the crank from

A Century Ago

—The Oxford Democrat
January 30, 1877

Bethel
December went out as it came in, cold. Snow fell on thirteen days during the month. The depth of snow on the ground at this time is much greater than usual.

The mills are running on one-third time. The water is so low, unless a change takes place soon, the mills will stop entirely. Mr. E. E. Morse at South Bethel who received an order last fall, from a party in Boston, for some four thousand bedsteads, will not be able to fill the contract, owing to lack of water.

Business is very quiet in town. Several of our farmers contemplated cutting and hauling to the Richardson steam mill several hundred cords of oak and poplar timber, for staves; but little, as yet has been hauled.

The M. E. Sewing Circle met last Thursday evening with Mrs. William Straw.

John E. Willis, Deputy Sheriff of Gorham, N. H., formerly of Bethel, fell under a train on the Grand Trunk Railway at Milan, last Saturday, and was instantly killed.

Mr. E. V. Blake is getting to the mill on Fish River, quite a large amount of birch timber to be sawed into bedstead strips.

More timber is being cut in the little town of Gilead this winter, than in all the rest of the towns in Oxford County.

The Cold Water Templars gave a grand entertainment, last Thursday evening, at Pattee's Hall. A nice supper was provided late in the evening.

District No. 22, at South Bethel is having a very profitable winter school under the instruction of Mr. Frank Blake, an able teacher. A lyceum has been organized, and is well sustained. District No. 14 is also having a profitable term of school.

The Grangers met at the house of Mr. Moses Mason, last Wednesday evening.

Neil Gosson, a young man seventeen years old, left his mother's home on Swan's hill last November, to visit a friend at Hanover. After spending a few days there, he left, saying he was going back to his home. Since that time he has not been heard from. Any information concerning his whereabouts sent to Mrs. Lydia Gosson will be gratefully received.

the operating mechanism; sliding windows can be protected either by special latch deadlocks or by placing a metal or wood dowel in the lower track.

In addition, the appearance of occupancy is an important preventive step for when away from home. Inexpensive timing devices are available to turn lights on and off at pre-set times. Likewise, keeping window shades and curtains in normal daytime positions gives the impression that someone is home.

Even as Maine legislators and law enforcement officers continue their efforts to combat crime in our State, it is important for individual citizens to take the simple precautionary measures which can help prevent any further increase in residential burglaries in Maine. Putting the principles of deterrence, delay and detection to work in your home can protect your family and property and help reduce the threat of burglary in our communities.

— Mrs. Collista Morgan, Corres. —
By noon time the temperature had risen from minus 18 degrees to plus 18 degrees.

I stood outside my porch and looked north, south, east, and west and wondered into which beauty I should go.

At the feeder the blue jays were busy each trying to hold the fort for himself. There came warlike cries and combats in the air, where two champions met head to head, their wings fanning to keep the fighters aloft in their off-balance position. In the duel neither was hurt, yet, there was a victor and a vanquished, and one returned to the stand, while the other watched from a branch above.

After this was settled I decided to go east for a way then take a snowmobile road up Noyes Mountain if it would hold. It did. So I set out not knowing where it would take me except into the forest.

The trail was steep. I stopped several times my eyes resting on the beautiful landscape. The head of Overset Mountain reared high. Looking down on to the pond the snow was rippled in sand patterns like the shore of the sea.

As I traveled, I looked about with delight. The sky was everywhere clear, and over the white lip of the landscape my eyes traveled for miles across the country, snow-patterned with the dark green of the trees.

I heard a rustling and a far blown beech leaf, bending over like a little toad, scrambled across my path then on to other sections crossing the ever so many lacy tracks of mice.

Now the slope of the hill became steeper. I rested again and looked at the blue dome of the sky softening against the west. Below me the trail was lapped by the shadows from the many trees. Some of the snow at each side of the trail was packed from the recent winds and had lost its white-fur softness.

I continued in the trail and found easier and more level going for a time. Then I noticed that around the next curve the path was really up and up. So I decided to turn back for today.

The white birches were eye catching and spectacular with their grace in line. It is hard to picture a northeastern hillside without the grace of this tree against the winter hillside where its beauty stands out in a gray world.

I took a picture and then continued down the mountain.

As I came to the road a small flock of pine grosbeaks were there to greet me. They were feeding in the road and on frozen apples clinging to a tree. They are robust, short, thick, near the size of a robin with rosinous noticeable on their head, rump, and breast; not at all shy.

My show here was over and I was satisfied. I now returned home where later I saw the sunset. I gazed along the western horizon where the sun was streaming through a clump of tall spruces. The dead limbs were transfigured in the light. The background stood in lemon colored glory as the sun ended its pathway for this day.

Club Eight met with Anna Jarvenpaa on Tuesday afternoon. Etta Morris won the hostess prize.

REBELS HOLD 15-POINT EDGE OVER LEAVITT FRIDAY

Visiting Telstar burned Leavitt from the foul line, employing a 19-2 advantage, to more than account for the margin of victory
Friday night in the Rebels' 59-44
Mountain Conference basketball win over the Hornets.

The Rebels outscored Leavitt
22-8 in the second period and out-rebounded them 19-6 for a 31-18 halftime lead.

The two teams played about equal in the second half. The Rebels switched defenses effectively to confuse Leavitt's offense.

Smith wound up high scorer for Leavitt with 18 points and Rick House was right behind with 16, but these two accounted for 34 of Leavitt's 44 total. B. G. Flynn paced the Telstar attack with 15 points and Dan Cummings added 12.

This Week at Gould

This week's column is about the functions of the Gould Academy Student Council. Students are elected to represent each dorm and the town students at the beginning of each term. Any student grievances can be taken to their respective representatives and the problem can be efficiently resolved through the Student Council.

The Student Council's major source of income, used for the benefit of the student body, comes from the snack bar. Other sources are vending machines in each dorm, the juke box, and dances.

The snack bar is located in the Union, where students can gather during their free time. They can play ping pong or watch television. The smoking room and students' mailboxes are in the Union also.

Bear River Grange #285 met Saturday evening at the Community Room of the Bethel Savings Bank, for their January meeting. The meeting was called to order by Worthy Master Raymond Tripp Jr., at 7:30 p. m. and a long but interesting meeting continued. The many items of business were discussed by the members and appropriate action taken. As there was a visiting non-member waiting to speak about the Postal Service, the business meeting was completed before having the literary program, which was as follows: The lecturer, Russell Yates, started his program by explaining about the bell on the Lecturer's table. This bell is the lecturer's emblem. The Grange theme, Bells of the future and the Grange song is any Bell song. The lecturer also called attention to the many lecturer's contests, and expressed hope that some of the members might participate in these contests. As this meeting was called "Grange Resolution Night" the next number on the program was a reading, "Resolutions for a Good Granger" by the lecturer.

Members were then asked to suggest some resolutions or suggestions for the betterment of the Grange. These suggestions were copied down and will be posted on the bulletin board for future reference. The Worthy Lecturer ended the list of Resolutions by stating that throughout the year, he will bring to the attention of the Grangers, many of the Grange Laws and Edicts, in hope that we may better understand the rules, so as to follow them more closely. Some of the laws were then read by the Lecturer, who also spoke of the changes needing to be made.

At this time Brother Ronnie Kendall, mail carrier from the Bethel Post Office, was introduced, and asked to speak. Ronnie showed pictures, taken in the Bethel Post Office, so to help us better understand how the mails are sorted and handled by the workers there. The Grangers were enlightened on the many aspects of the Postal Service, including some of the trials and tribulations of the carriers themselves. A question and answer period followed, and Ronnie, a twenty year veteran of the Postal Service had the answers. This was a very interesting and informative discussion.

Next on the program was the reading of a poem, "Rural Carrier's Lament", read by Brother Robert Billings. Another poem, written by the lecturer and titled "The Mails of Long Ago" was read by him at this time. The poem

STATE OF MAINE
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Karen L. Brown

This week in Augusta two citizens groups, Save Our State and Maine Towns for Fair Taxation, submitted petitions containing 50,000 signatures to force a referendum on the Repeal of the Uniform Property Tax. Unless the legislature should choose to enact a repeal of its own, the referendum will go to the voters in the fall.

There was some fear that forcing the referendum would prevent the Legislature from passing reforms of the school funding law. I don't feel that this will be the case, however. The Legislature may act on such measures as reducing the mill rate, but passage of the referendum would avoid any legislation in that area during this session.

Despite nearly unanimous opposition by Republican Legislators, the Legislature has authorized the creation of a House Appropriations Table, where all bills surviving committee work and initial House action may be placed at the end of the session.

I voted against the House appropriation Table, because the measure would cost the state about $30,000 for every day the legislature is in session. The creation of this measure could cause an increase in political infighting over money bills.

The Oxford County Legislative delegation chose Senator Philip C. Jackson (R-Harrison) chairman and Senator Donald O'Leary (D-Mexico) Vice Chairman, and myself as Secretary on Wednesday. The delegation will meet next Tuesday to finalize the county budget.

I spent Saturday in Hanover and Andover talking to people and listening to views on pending legislation.

The closure date on new legislation is Friday, Jan. 28.

related to days when the mails were delivered by four legged horses, and the lecturer was a young boy living in Woodstock. A couple short, amusing stories were read as the grand finale to the literary program. A bountiful lunch, served by the ladies, followed. A birthday cake, made and decorated by Sister Josephine Tripp, was presented to brother Earl Hutchinson. The Happy Birthday song was sung and all ate ice cream and cake and other goodies. The meeting came to a close after a very interesting and enjoyable evening.

This week is Independent Study Week at the Rumford High School. Independent Study is a week-long annual program in which all high school students take the week off from school to work as an apprentice for some person or profession, or to do some work on their own. This can be a valuable learning experience. The projects, devised by the students themselves, are many and varied. Of course, the Hanover students are no exception, and they also have some interesting ideas, as follows: Jane Goddard is working at Cozy Inn nursing home, Celina Couture is working at Kelly Auto Parts, Tim Parent at Porteous in Portland, Matt Howe is doing some trapping, and Dennis Gross will be on the ski patrol at Sunday River. Doug Ferguson and Kevin Howe are ambitious, they traveled to Washington, D. C., and will be working in Senator Hathaway's office. Becky Stearns, Lisa Ramsey, Sue Everett and Rachel Chase will be helping out at Rumford Center School this week, while Dan Ferguson, Beverly Chase, Mike Robin and Andy Howe will be redecorating rooms in their homes.

Members of the Ladies' Aid put on a nice church service at the Rumford Point Church last Sunday.

Marjorie Cummings was released from the hospital during the middle of last week. Mr. and Mrs. Howe left Saturday to take their son, Kevin and Doug Ferguson to Logan airport, for their trip to Washington for Independent Study Week. Then Mr. and Mrs. Howe went to Springfield for a visit with relatives, returning home Monday afternoon.

Harry Chase returned from the hospital last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael White and son, Scott, spent the week end with her parents, the Herman Kennises.

Burman Francis of Norway spent the week end at his camp and shoveled off his roof which was quite heavy with snow.

Mrs. John Sweat and Elaine Sweat were in Brunswick Friday and on their way home called on the Russell Bennett family in Rumford.

Andrew West has returned to the home of her father, Lee West, after visiting his wife, Lucy, in Pittsfield, Maine.

Words are fascinating. A TV announcer said it is thought an original copy of "The Declaration of Independence" has been discovered? I am contemplating whether an original copy is possible. Not, of course, if copy means duplicate but there are other connotations of the word. While the snow drifts lazily my mind is inclined the same way along useless but harmless paths.

Special town meeting lasted a very short time in spite of adequate warmth in the room. Fred was chosen moderator and asked that remarks be kept pertinent and brief. One voter motioned there be three minutes per person and after this motion was carried he expressed opinions previously made. As other remarks were made, this voter had some new thoughts and asked extension on his allotted time. Some less oratorical voters conceded their's in his favor? Although much was in a light vein, obviously the voters were seriously considering the effects of the decision so much is uncertain, the large majority voted no. Article 3 was passed over as it was pertinent only if Article 2 had been voted in and the meeting adjourned.

Fred and Mrs. Mae attended an assessors workshop in South Paris Sunday.

Marie Jenkins is spending a week with her uncle to study Country Store business as school project. She will write a thesis on the subject when she returns to Rumford High.

Several people from town attended the movie, "Noah's Ark" in Berlin during the week end.

Another beautiful week. A bit on the cold side Monday and Tuesday then it was nice even for the inauguration and all and I think it looked better from the inside. Went out twice during the week and it seemed good for a change.

Mrs. Gladys Bonney has been at Stephens Memorial Hospital this past week for tests after having a slight heart attack while at Norway shopping.

A public supper to benefit the David Ring family will be held at Goodwill Hall, West Paris, Jan. 29. Let's go.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Millett, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Coffin and Ruby Coffin called at the Lawrences.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Enman, Rumford Point, spent Sunday afternoon with the Barretts. Callers during the week were Lloyd Henley, Pete Andrews, John Estes, Doris Lawrence, Lois O'Hearon.

Root Lawrence and Eveline Barrett are having radiator trouble. Guess we need new cars.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Perry and boys, Harrison, were at her brother's, John O'Hearon's, Saturday P. M. The Raymond Tripps from Auburn were there Sunday.

IRS ANNOUNCES NEW PROBLEM RESOLUTION PROGRAM

Maine taxpayers who feel their tax problems are not receiving prompt and appropriate attention from the Internal Revenue Service can turn for assistance to a newly-created IRS Problem Resolution Group in Augusta, according to J. J. Jennings, District Director of Internal Revenue Service for Maine. "This group is designed to reduce delays inherent in a large organization such as ours and to provide quick assistance to a taxpayer who has a legitimate problem."

Discussing how the Problem Resolution Program will operate in the Augusta District, IRS Director Jennings emphasized that taxpayers should seek assistance from the Problem Resolution Group only if they cannot obtain proper resolution of their problem through "normal" IRS channels, such as the Taxpayer Service Offices, the Collection or Audit Divisions, etc.

Some of the difficulties that Problem Resolution Groups will handle include billing and payment credit misunderstandings, failure to get a definitive answer to a question, failure by IRS to respond properly to taxpayer communications, and the misunderstanding of IRS correspondence.

By establishing the Problem Resolution Group, Jennings said, the IRS hopes to determine the nature, variety, volume and causes of problems not being resolved through existing channels, and be able to provide remedies.

Taxpayers may call 622-6171, Ext. 450, visit the Problem Resolution Group in person located in the Augusta IRS office, 68 Sewall Street, Taxpayer Service area on the ground floor, or write to the Problem Resolution Officer, P. O. Box 1020, Augusta, Maine 04330. Jennings emphasized that taxpayers writing about a problem should include their telephone number as well as their return address.

HOME OFFICE DEDUCTIONS
LIMITED BY NEW TAX LAW

Individuals who maintain an office at home will have to meet tougher restrictions to deduct expenses related to the office on their 1976 Federal income tax returns, advises J. J. Jennings, District Director of Internal Revenue Service for Maine.

The restrictions, part of the Tax Reform Act of 1976 are retroactive to January 1, 1976. Basically, the restrictions permit self-employed taxpayers to deduct expenses for an office at home only if the part of the home claimed is used exclusively and regularly for business.

In addition, unless the taxpayer uses the room to meet clients, customers or patients, it must be the taxpayer's principal place of business.

Salespeople and other employees can claim the deduction only if they maintain their office at home for the convenience of their employer and satisfy the above requirements, Jennings said.

Another requirement of the law limits deductions for the expenses of operating an office at home, such as rent and utilities, to no more than the income produced in that office.

Jennings added that tax packages mailed to taxpayers provide information on deducting expenses for use of a home under the new tax provisions. Additional details are covered in IRS Publication 587, "Business Use of Your Home."

The free publication may be obtained by writing "Pub. 587" on the or. Je. blank enclosed in tax packages, or by contacting the IRS using the new "forms only" calling numbers: Within the Augusta calling area 622-3793 and from the rest of Maine toll-free at 1-800-452-8700.

DEER HAVING EASY WINTER
—THROUGH DECEMBER

The recent cold and snowy weather has no doubt reversed the trend, but through December Maine's deer herd had been enjoying a pretty easy winter.

The Maine Fish and Wildlife Dept. annually collects weather data at nearly 50 locations in and near deer wintering areas throughout the state. Evaluated in terms of its effect on deer, the Winter Severity Index for December 1976 revealed that conditions in northern Maine were near the long-term average but were much better than average throughout the rest of the state.

With an index of 100 representing average deer wintering conditions, and more than 100 as more severe than average, the state-wide index for December was 62.7.

During the first half of the month, eastern and coastal sections of Maine were largely snow-free; the rest of the state had a snow cover ranging from 1 to 20 inches. A series of coastal snowstorms later in the month greatly increased the average snow depth. The maximum snow depth of 40.4 inches was recorded on Dec. 28 at Lower Armstrong Brook in northern Aroostook County.

Prolonged periods of below zero weather resulted in abnormally low average temperatures statewide for the month.

By the end of the month, deer mobility was somewhat restricted in the northern part of the state, but there were no serious crusts to further impede their mobility. Winter Severity Index reports are issued monthly. The recent storms that have beset Maine will be reflected in the report due out in mid-February.

CONTINENTAL TEL. ORDERED
BY P. U. C. TO DECREASE
ANNUAL GROSS REVENUES

The Maine Public Utilities Commission, in a 2-1 decision, late last Friday ordered Continental Telephone Company of Maine to decrease annual gross revenues by no less than $408,306.

Continental Telephone of Maine, serving approximately 33,000 customers with telephone service in various towns and cities in Oxford, Penobscot, Cumberland, Hancock, Kennebec, Androscoggin, Lincoln, Knox, Aroostook and Waldo Counties, filed a request with the PUC last April 22 to increase annual operating revenues by $510,488. Oxford County towns served by Continental Telephone are: Andover, Bethel, Fryeburg, Hebron, Lovell, North Fryeburg, Norway, West Bethel, Locke Mills, Roxbury Pond and Upton.

Public hearings on the request were held in Augusta on Sept. 10, Nov. 3, 4, 5, 22, 23, and Dec. 6, 10 and 21, and many members of the public testified concerning extended area (or toll free) service and quality of service.

In the majority decision, Commissioners Ralph H. Gelder and Peter A. Bradford ordered the revenue decrease based on evidence presented by staff experts to the Commission.

The Commissioners noted that ordering a rate decrease in a case initiated by request for increase is not a situation that confronts them often, for few utilities subject themselves to rate review at a time when previously established PUC adjustments routinely applied would mandate a substantial decrease.

The Commission concluded that it "has the power to order a reduction, and we are under a clear duty to do so if the evidence warrants such action."
